

Master of Arts in Education

- I'm currently in the second year of the curriculum and instruction program in Master of Arts in Education.
- Getting my master's degree seemed like a logical outcome, and so Mount Vernon offered the program that I was interested in, a friendly schedule, and being local was very convenient for me.
- We meet one night a week, four hours a night, and it does make a long day after teaching all day but coming in from the classroom made it very practical and we were able to take the events and the things that we experienced in our classroom and then the things that we were studying and be able to use them and learn from them .
- The professors have done a really great job of helping us as working teachers to get back into the swing and to accomplish the expectations of a master's degree.
- My experience with the adult and graduate studies here at Mount Vernon Nazarene University has been a challenge, it's been an exciting time, it's been an asset to me professionally to be able to take the things that I'm learning in school and not feel like it's busy work, but to be able to take it and use it in my classroom. The project that I'm doing for my final, my practitioner's project, is something that I'm using everyday in school and I'm implementing it building wide. That's nice, it's nice to know that it's not just going to sit on the shelf and collect dust but it's something that I can actually use.
