

Master of Ministry

- The Master of Ministry program has been truly life-changing for me.
- One of the things I like about it is that it forces a well-rounded approach to pastoral ministry.
- Pastoral growth, leadership, biblical theology, preaching and exegesis, spiritual formation
- And so that's one of the things that attracted me to this program
- It forces you to not only gain the understanding but then to think seriously and begin to develop an application strategy.
- It forced me out of the things that I like and forces you to learn the things that you need to learn to be effective in pastoral ministry.
- As an adult looking for a program that would work with my family life and with my wife's career; how could I complete my education and really prepare for ministry?...Everything that I read about the Mount Vernon program just really felt right.
- You meet for one week, Monday you come in at 1:00 and Friday you leave at noon.
- The course is designed to be a series of one-week intensives.
- I've seen where the program has met the needs of other people in different denominations, both men and women.
- One of the things that was most impressive to me was the interest the professors took in the individual students.
- The professors make the classes detailed to the people in the class no matter where you are educationally.
- Being able to leave the program to do the work of God's kingdom to the very best of your ability
- Whenever I found this program, I was overwhelmingly pleased and was really excited about what God could do in my life and in my ministry through the Master of Ministry program.
